After establishing herself as a phenom in the world of horseback riding, Madison Johnson proved to be just as phenomenal in the classroom.

The valedictorian of Hahnville High's Class of 2020 said she was rendered speechless when hearing the news, which carries a bit more weight for someone who has long been proficient at identifying, then accomplishing, her goals. And indeed, the honor of valedictorian has been something Johnson has held ambitions for since she was very young.

"I wasn't expecting it at all," Johnson said. "I was at a loss for words. I thought I'd be in the top 10 ... I've been shooting for this for four years. It's been a goal of mine since I was in kindergarten."

Her strong internal motivation was strengthened by a family and a group of teachers who have consistently spurred her onward.

"It has a lot to do with my family pushing me and instilling that work ethic in me," Johnson said. "Teaching me to never accept failure. Anything below an A was considered a failure to me. My teachers pushed me as well ... they knew I could do it, sometimes even more than I thought I could."

She'll be attending Nicholls State later this year, where she plans to go into veterinary studies. For those who know Johnson at all, that may not come as much of a surprise: she grew up on a farm, and taking care of animals is something that comes as second nature for her.

But Johnson also recognized a need that she plans to one day fill.

"They knew I could do it, sometimes even more than I thought I could,"

— Madison Johnson

"As I grew up, I could recognize how much of a struggle it was to find a veterinarian nearby to work on our livestock, having to call on someone who's an hour away," Johnson said. "I thought about it and figured, hey, I have the work ethic to do it. I'm pretty sure I'm smart enough to make it into med school. Why don't I fill that position, and do something I love to do as a career? I've always had that love of animals."

A love of animals, in addition to a desire to follow in her grandfather's footsteps, led to her entering the competitive arena of barrel racing.

Cameron Cunningham knew he was in the mix to potentially be Hahnville High’s salutatorian for the Class of 2020, but when the call came it still left him rather shocked.

“I figured I was in the running, but also that there were a bunch of other people likely to be ahead of me,” Cunningham said. “So when Mr. (Brian) Lumar called, it didn’t really register for a bit.”

His hard work over the past four years indeed brought him to the high honor, and with news that Hahnville and Destrehan plan to hold their respective graduation ceremonies July 11, he’ll be able to walk across the stage proudly to take in that accomplishment.

That was not necessarily promised a few weeks ago, when there were thoughts a live graduation ceremony might not be in the cards as gatherings were limited to guard against the coronavirus. A graduation ceremony, he said, would at least bring everyone together one final time and add a bit of proper closure.

“It really hurt,” Cunningham said. “It was especially tough because when we first got out, I thought we were going to get the chance to go back.”

A drummer and captain of the Hahnville band percussionist section, Cunningham said not being able to

“It was especially tough because when we first got out, I thought we were going to get the chance to go back,”

— Cameron Cunningham

“Being in the band is easily the thing I’ll remember the most about Hahnville,” Cunningham said. “It’s the most fun I think I’ve had in my entire life, between the fun experiences with the band and the directors ... it’s the closest thing you can get to being an artist while still in high school. I developed a lot of good habits and personality traits from my time with them that I want to keep with me for the rest of my life.”

Part of what made the band special was pulling together with a like-minded group of people, all working to the same goal.

“People who want to make music with you, to become a coherent unit that does something to put a smile on people’s

State champ dominated on the mat, football field

Ryan Arena Editor
ryana@heraldguide.com

Head to head with the only wrestler he'd failed to defeat in his 44 matches as a senior, Logan Brimmer was confident and poised in his state championship final match against defending champion Evan Ulfers of St. Paul's.

He had a plan and executed it to perfection—and as result, Brimmer reigns as Division I's 220-pound state champion after besting Ulfers by a 5-2 decision, the Tigers' senior finishing a stellar senior season with 44 wins and one loss.

"It felt unreal and surreal," Brimmer said. "It didn't feel real while it was happening. It felt like I was dreaming."

It stands among the chief of many accomplishments for the Hahnville High graduate, also an excellent football player who will be attending Louisiana College on an athletic scholarship to continue honing his skills in the latter sport.

The championship match was the lone victory for Brimmer that did not come via pinfall in a dominating tournament effort. On his way to the championship round, Brimmer defeated Ashton Freeman in the semifinals by a pinfall at 5:19; Tyler Tullier of Central-Baton Rouge by pinfall (1:42) in the quarterfinals; Kendrick Burton Jr. of

HHS grad never missed a day of school

She got to school at 6 a.m. and didn't leave until 7 p.m. Even more remarkable is the fact that, even if the times varied slightly, she attended every day.

Megan Trahan, a member of the 2020 graduating class of Hahnville High School, has had perfect school attendance since pre-K. She has never missed a day of school since she started.

During her high school career, Trahan maintained honor roll status while participating in band, color guard, ROTC, the robotics team, drive team, the National Honor Society, Beta Club and Girl Scouts. Her long list of activities meant often getting to school early and leaving long after the final bell had rung.

Talented actor hopes to return to parish as teacher after college

moniquer@heraldguide.com

Alaina Markey’s star shone bright as a theatre and choir member during her four years at Hahnville High School, and now the 2020 graduate has her sights set on larger stages and audiences as she enters college.

At HHS, Markey was a member of the National Beta Club, Culture Club, Fellowship of Christian Students and Athletes, National Honors Society, Spanish Honors Society and International Thespian Society: Thespian Troupe 7313. She also participated in talented theatre and choir, all while being a part of the Freshman Advisory Mentors.

And while she dipped her toes in a lot of extra-curricular pools, Markey said it was theatre and choir that were her favorite things to dive into.

Markey was 10 years old when she stumbled upon Anthony Bean Community Theater as she was looking for a summer camp. She ended up participating in her first production – High School Musical – there. One of the performances fell on her 11th birthday.

Since then, she has participated in three other productions at the New Orleans theater, as well as one each year at HHS.

While theater remained a main passion, Markey said she also loved choir at HHS. Occasionally she sings at her church, St. Anthony of Padua, as well.

Markey completed her senior project on sign language, something she’s been learning for the past nine years.

“I’ve also learned how to sing songs and sign at the same time,” Markey said. “My older cousin, Trell, had my little cousin, Quinn, in 2011 ... she always wanted to teach her child sign language because she grew up with someone deaf.”

When Quinn was diagnosed with Klinefelter’s syndrome and chromosome 2 duplication, Markey said Trell officially started teaching him sign language because doctors said he would never talk.

“I’m sad to leave my friends, but I’m very excited to get to experience college and excited to make new friends and solidify who I am,”

— Alaina Markey

“Now at 8 years old he talks everyone’s head off,” she said.

In the fall, Markey will head to the University of Louisiana-Lafayette where she’ll major in early childhood education and minor in performing arts.

The decision to attend a school farther away from home than other available schools was tough, Markey said, because of her tight-knit family. Ultimately,

Twins share love for helping others, one another

Ryan Arena Editor
ryana@heraldguide.com

It wasn't all that uncommon an occurrence for someone to mistake Isabella Distefano for her identical twin sister Sophia, or Sophia for Isabella. But for those who know the twins, it's always an easy call.

"People who know us think it's obvious," Isabella said. "If they know our personalities in the slightest, they can't mix us up."

Sophia is outgoing and gravitates to leadership roles; Isabella more reserved and comfortable behind the scenes. But beyond their appearance, they still share a few other things in common.

They both like to stay busy, for one. Sophia was Interact president, SBN secretary and a part of the theatre program, student council and National Honor Society. Isabella was involved in the same activities, the biggest difference was while Sophia was more involved in theatre, Isabella was an officer with the Hahnville dance team.

"It was interesting ... our parents kept us in the same class as much as possible growing up, then once we got to high school we kind of grew into our own interests and our own separate people," Isabella said.

Sophia said the two learned early in their lives the value of getting and

Rotary award winner uses his multiple talents to bring joy to others

For Justin Rogers, there's nothing quite like performing.

Whether he's playing an instrument, singing for a crowd of people or portraying the most dastardly villain in a stage theatre production, the Hahnville High graduate feels a charge when he takes in that audience reaction.

"You just get this feeling of joy ... I love playing for other people and to see the smile on their face," Rogers said. "You evoke a certain feeling out of people that you simply don't get unless there's music playing."

Rogers will study music and theatre at the University of Southern Mississippi, and leaves Hahnville with plenty accomplished under his belt. A recent production of Matilda stood as Rogers' 24th stage production since he began pursuing theatre in elementary school. He's a proud alumnus of the Hahnville band and self-taught in several instruments. He was a member of choir and the Green Club at HHS, but he also found time to be very active in the community

Madison Johnson has captured multiple National Barrel Horse Association district and youth titles.

At the age of 13, she placed 24th out of 960 competitors in the All American Youth competition for barrel racing – and was at the time already a veteran of six years in the sport. She won the Youth and Open Championship of the TLAFA Rodeo Series and has captured multiple National Barrel Horse Association district and youth championships.

Her grandfather owned and operated BAR LR Farms for approximately 40 years – he and Johnson’s grandmother gave Johnson her very first saddle when she was five years old. “That adrenaline rush,” said

Johnson of what drives her to compete. “And especially the connection you form between you and your horse. That’s among the most special things you can ever experience.”

Johnson competed alongside her mother, Rachelle, in several competitions before the latter injured her back and was forced to the sidelines. Johnson says she’s scaled back on competition herself in recent years, mostly to focus on her schoolwork, but adds she’s right back into the thick of things.

“Now I’m back full force,” she said.

faces,” he said. “You’re working with band directors who support each and every one of you. And you meet so many people not just in your section, but people from all over at other schools as well.”

Such is Cunningham’s passion for it that at one point, he carried aspirations of becoming a professional musician. Ultimately, he decided to keep that part of his life as a hobby. He will begin classes at the University of Louisiana-Lafayette later this year where he will major in biology, with a concentration in microbiology. He’ll still be quite busy making music, however, as he’ll be part of ULL’s Pride of Acadiana Marching Band, playing bass drum.

Science is an interest he began cultivating in middle school, with a particular focus in taxonomy. He sees himself ultimately going into research in the biology field.

“Categorizing and classifying animals based on their different characteristics and traits was something that became easy for me to pick up on,” Cunningham said. “And I enjoy learning about different biological processes. (Biology) was just the class I really looked forward to every day.”

He noted that while he’s always been comfortable in the classroom, his course to salutatorian wasn’t paved without considerable hard work. Maintaining the discipline to stay consistent in his studies was something he credited as a major part of his success. “Just not letting myself give up on anything,” Cunningham said. “Whenever I’d be sitting down and maybe be overwhelmed by homework for a particular class, I knew I had to keep going and get it done because if I didn’t, everything I’d worked on for all those years before wouldn’t be worth anything.”

CHAMPION from 10A

East Ascension by pinfall (1:42) in round two and Blayden Laidlaw of Sulphur by pinfall in round one (5:18).

Ulfers had matched up with Brimmer once before this season and got the better of the latter. This time, Brimmer, along with HHS wrestling coach Dan Erwin, tweaked his approach and found the formula to avenge his lone loss.

“It was really a couple of small things ... a very simple gameplan, and Logan executed it perfectly,” Erwin said. “(Ulfers) nearly got one on us early, thankfully it didn’t backfire. He was prepared well for something Logan went for early, and nearly got a takedown,

“When I’m wrestling, I’m just focused on working and never stopping,”

— Logan Brimmer

but Logan was ready and he actually got the first takedown.”

It was a meteoric rise for Brimmer, who entered this year’s state tournament as Division I’s No. 2 seed at 220 pounds. Ulfers was the top seed.

This year, Brimmer was driven to succeed, motivated by the loss that ended his season a year ago. Brimmer entered last season’s state tournament as the state’s No. 4 seed. Needing one more win to earn a spot on the winner’s podium, Brimmer was disqualified for an illegal move. Erwin noted Brimmer was far ahead in points in the contest.

“That was one of his biggest motivations,” Erwin said. “He said at the beginning, ‘I’m not doing that again.’”

He rededicated himself. The two-sport star put together his best season on the football field, playing defensive end for the Tigers, then transitioned back into wrestling.

After breaking out as a contender as a junior, another year of refining his craft paid dividends.

“I felt like I could move around faster ... it was just different this year,” Brimmer said. “I drove myself harder to be that guy. I had a different kind of drive. That goes back to the guys who came before me and what they inspired me to do.”

Brimmer was referring to a tradition of great Hahnville grapplers, including Kendrick Jones, a former state champion, and Tre’Von Honor, a two-time state runner up. Brimmer found inspiration in their words.

As the season went on, he began to realize he was in the midst of something special.

“I really came in just trying to get back to work, to get into wrestling shape after football. After that, it was about helping our team get right,” he said. “I just kept working and working and suddenly, you’re deep into the year and I realize I’ve got one loss. So it’s like, ‘hey, I’m here now, so I’ve got to do it.’”

At one point, he won 31 matches in a row. At state, he was taken down just one time: on the season, opponents were able to secure takedowns of Brimmer on just seven occasions.

“Coach told me during one tournament, after someone took me down, ‘You do realize that’s the first time someone’s taken you down this season,’” Brimmer said. “I thought that’s just crazy. I never realized it. When I’m wrestling, I’m just focused on working and never stopping.”

Erwin said Brimmer is an example of hard work paying off.

“It’s been a lot of fun,” Brimmer said. “All of the congrats ... my friends almost aggravate me with it. They almost don’t call me by name anymore, just ‘state champ.’ I like it, but I’m still the same person.”

staying involved, as well as lending a helping hand.

“We were raised to volunteer all the time, anywhere we could be needed, so if there was something we could do for school we would,” Sophia said. “My dad was part of Rotary Club and coordinated the Alligator Festival ... we’d spend the entire weekend out there helping. We learned from our parents.

“Ever since I was little and going to church, I’ve seen the impact you can have if you make an effort to help. Handing out toys at Christmas, sometimes that might be the only present a child gets at Christmas. So any chance to help, even if it’s just picking up trash on the side of the road when we’re out walking, I want to do it. When you see the impact, you want to keep going.”

They helped people in part through their work with Interact. The club reached out to the community various ways, like donating baked goods to police and firefighters in the parish.

The two admit they’ve always been competitive with one another, in academics and activities alike. But it’s a friendly back and forth. They share a love for helping others, but also one another.

“We kept that competitive edge (at Hahnville) but in a different way. If I needed her help with a project or she needed me for something with dance team, we were there. We always had each other’s back,” Sophia said.

For the first time, however, they will be completely apart later this year. Sophia is headed to LSU, where she will major in political science with plans to eventually go into law school. Isabella, meanwhile, will attend Southeastern, where she plans to study business administration.

Isabella said she would love to one day work for herself and establish a business, though she’s open to the many paths a business administration degree could take her. Sophia, meanwhile, has long had an interest in law and political science, fostered in middle school through her time with debate team.

“We’ve been together our whole lives, so it’s going to be different, but exciting,” Isabella said.

Added Sophia, “It’ll definitely be different. I know I have friends I can count on, but it’s not the same as my sister who I grew up with.”

festivals, and Trahan said being a part of the group led to making many friends.

“The good thing about band was no matter what class you went into, if there was a band kid there, you would always have someone to know and sit by and talk to,” she said.

Involving herself in as many activities as possible in high school was important to Trahan.

“It got me to be involved more and spread myself out so I would have more than one experience in school,” she said.

In the fall Trahan will head to the University of Southern Mississippi, where she plans to double major in forensic anthropology and forensic science.

“I’ve always been interested in crime shows,” she said. “It’s always piqued an interest in me, so as I continued to research, I took more interest in science classes ... I really enjoy it.”

With her ACT score of 30, Trahan was awarded free tuition from the university. She also received a scholarship from HHS’s robotics team, the St. Charles Parish Rotary Club and was the 2020 recipient of the James E. Sierra, III Memorial Scholarship.

In college, Trahan said she is eager to explore campus life, as well as look into joining a forensics association and winter guard group.

She also plans to join the ROTC at Southern Miss. Joining for the first two years of college serves as a trial period to further explore joining the military, Trahan said, adding it also gives participants the opportunity to become an officer in the military.

YOUNG PERSON OF YEAR from 12A

Rogers says his best instrument is saxophone, which he plans to play at Southern Mississippi. He took after his older brother in that regard, whose work with the instrument inspired Rogers early on in his life.

“He started playing sax, but he stopped because he got braces,” Rogers said. “I really wanted to play it, and that got me started there.”

“He throws a baby off a train. When we got there ... I mean, everyone in the crowd reacted. There was confusion, everyone started talking,” Rogers said. “When I took a bow, everyone actually booed me, and that fueled me to want to keep going. It was a lot of fun.”

The multi-talented student likes to use his gifts to make others happy. He’s been a regular part of the Mardi Gras parades at Ashton Manor where he plays music and uses his voice as a Christmas caroler.

Rogers is thrilled to be going to Southern Mississippi, where he’s had his eye on since researching it for a school project in middle school. By the time he took a theatre field trip there in high school, he was hooked.

At a very young age, he taught himself to play piano. In his junior year at HHS, he taught himself how to play trumpet. And he didn’t put his quarantine time to waste, taking that opportunity to teach himself how to play guitar.

But theatre is a passion that stands equally to his love of music. He didn’t necessarily know it at first, though.

“It’s kind of strange in comparison ... in the first through fourth grade in Jefferson Parish they kind of force you to do theatre. We moved to St. Charles Parish when I was in fifth grade and I knew I liked doing it, but I wasn’t 100 percent into it like I would be,” Rogers said.

Things changed in his freshman year. He credited his theatre teachers for bringing him out of his shell and teaching him what the art form could truly offer. Upon completing the musical production “In the Heights” that year, he knew he was on the stage for good.

“That’s when I knew I wanted to do theatre, always,” Rogers said. “The people I met during that show, who pushed me during that show ... (classmate) Caleb Vedros helped me a lot. He’d bring me home every day, we’d sing the songs ... it was a big reason I wanted to stay in theatre.”

As far as his favorite characters? They come from different ends of the spectrum. He portrayed Roger in the St. John Parish Theatre production of Grease, the youngest and most innocent member of the T-Birds. What stood out to him more about that show was the cast, which brought what he called an unmatched, incredible energy level to the performance.

His other favorite saw him play the antagonist: Mayor Josiah Dobbs in the Hahnville production Bright Star. And, to say the least, Dobbs doesn’t leave much debate when it comes to where he falls on that good/bad spectrum.

Hole-in-one?

Try five: 86-year-old sinks her fifth at Cypress Lakes

Rare feat not so rare for Destrehan woman

Ryan Arena Editor
ryana@heraldguide.com

Many avid golfers go their entire lives without ever sinking a hole in one.

Joan Milazzo? She's got five.

The 86-year-old achieved number five on June 17 at Cypress Lakes Golf Club, sinking the shot on the course's 6th hole, a par 3.

Milazzo said it's been at least five years since her last one, and estimates she's hit one "about every 10 years" since she took up the game in her late 20s.

"You know, I didn't see it go in," said Milazzo, who was golfing with her friend Peggy Armond on the day. "She said she knew I hit a good shot, but when I walked up to the green, I didn't see the ball and thought, 'Doggone it, I must have hit it off the green.'"

After a little bit of searching, her instincts began pointing to a far better result.

"I finally said, 'Oh, I better go look at the hole,'" she said with a laugh.

Milazzo was a good high school athlete who did her work on the basketball court. She'd never played golf until one day, her husband was ready to play one Sunday but couldn't find anyone available to play alongside him.

"He said, 'C'mon, we're gonna play.' I hit a shot from the fairway, about 30 yards away, and it went in. I was hooked, right there."

Her first hole in one came after just a couple of years playing the game. At the time, as she did for many years, she played sporadically whenever she could find time. Milazzo worked as a registered nurse, so that time was something of a rare commodity. Nowadays, she's retired and is able to play a few times a week – she doesn't have to travel far, as the ladies' tee for the first hole of the Cypress Lakes course is a short walk from her front door.

"I've always liked it because you can't complain about anything," Milazzo said. "In a team sport, you can say things about this or that, but this is individual. If you have a bad day, you can't blame anyone else. And when you play golf, you have to have a positive attitude. Some people you play with, when they have one bad hole, they get upset and it ruins their game the rest of the day. I'm not like that ... I tell people, I think I'm better naturally than I really am. You're outdoors, enjoy yourself."

The hole in one is elusive and one of the most exciting accomplishments a player can secure. To have done it five times is unique, though at this point, she can almost feel them coming in a way.

"I kind of predicted it on two different occasions," Milazzo said. "The first time actually came on a day I was playing pretty badly. I told the women I was playing with, 'I'm playing so bad today, I guess I'll have to make a hole in one,' and I did."

The second occasion came this month.

"(Armond) said it had been quite a while since I had a hole in one, and I said yeah, I'd like to make one more before I die," Milazzo said. "Lo and behold ..."

Yep. The very next hole.

Milazzo plays with the Greater New Orleans Women's Golf Association. She's the oldest member of the approximately 100 person group, but don't let that fool you: you're more likely to have to keep up with her than vice versa.

"I play fast. Nobody has to worry about me slowing them down," she said.

She's also won three times in tournament competition over the years – "My name's on that trophy. I feel good about that."

When people learn about her five-time feat, they naturally get excited, she added.

"At Cypress Lakes, all the men were very happy when I told them," she said. "Years ago, that might not have been the case everywhere. Men were macho and wouldn't appreciate a woman making a hole-in-one. But everyone's been genuinely happy for me."

Joan Milazzo and Peggy Armond commemorate the former's hole in one shot.

"I didn't see the ball and thought, 'Doggone it, I must have hit it off the green.' I finally said, 'Oh, I better go look at the hole.'" — Joan Milazzo

Some thoughts as MLB gets ready to play ball

It looks like we're headed for a 60 game MLB season. Do you know what that means?

It means Ryan gets to write a column opining about professional sports ON FIELD COMPETITION for the first time in months! Indulge me, for it is a magical day.

Ryan Arena

Without further adieu ... (takes a deep breath) some thoughts on the upcoming 2020 MLB season!

*A dish best served cold ... but how cold is too cold? Has baseball's lust for revenge upon the Houston Astros cooled down after several months? The sign-stealing scandal that dominated sports headlines during spring training had many players speak out, and it seemed clear that while players escaped without penalty (Houston dismissed both its manager and general manager prior to the season, as each also faced year-long suspensions), some retribution was coming.

As we all know, no sport polices itself quite like baseball. Dusty Baker knows that. The new Houston manager was quick to vocalize his concern that his players might be at a major risk if MLB did not make clear that actions of retribution would not be tolerated – to put it bluntly, Baker thought Alex Bregman might have to get used to getting beaned by pitchers on the regular. And that was definitely coming.

Time may heal all wounds. But how much time? This may be 60 games of “lookout!” calls for Houston.

*This marathon becomes a sprint. 162 games is too many. I'll fight that fight until the bitter end. The NBA plays too many games with 82, as it is, especially when over half the league makes the playoffs. 162 is almost exactly double that – and it makes the game less than appointment viewing during the regular season.

But it's also tradition, and when many called a season of 45-60 games “pointless” due to its brevity, it's pretty exciting for me. Baseball gets called “boring” in part because games are long. But I think that's kind of off.

Baseball needs stakes. Every sport needs stakes. If you love the Yankees and the Red Sox beat them in July you may have two to three more shots at them IN THAT SERIES, let alone the fact it's 1 out of 162 in the standings. You're spending 3 to 4 hours invested in 1/162 of a season. It doesn't hold attention, no matter how great the game is!

60 games though? I'm really excited. And part of that is we're not only seeing games that will count more, but this is brand new territory for these managers and players. Seeing adjustments to it will be part of the fun.

And you may well see shorter games, at that: it stands to reason starting pitchers could roll longer into games, without a long haul to consider. Less pitching changes, perhaps less scoring as well, means a shorter time on the field.

Norco artist creates custom door decor – and more

Monique Roth Lifestyles Editor
moniquer@heraldguide.com

Snowballs, gnomes, New Orleans-inspired cocktails or your child’s favorite cartoon character – whatever the occasion or preference, Ginger & A Baby can decorate your door for it.

Courtney Singletary, a Norco artist, wife and work-from-home mom of 4-year-old Mason and 2-year-old Chase, started creating burlap door hangers after she had her first son.

She’s the ginger, and Mason was the baby.

“I was working retail when I had Mason, and I kind of went down on hours so I could stay home with him more,” she said. “I wanted to be able to do something when I was home.”

After the burlap door hangers came a bevy of other handmade offerings, including sugar scrubs, mesh wreaths and bath bombs.

“I did sell stuff right away, but it really didn’t take off at first,” Singletary said. “I sold mostly to friends and family.”

But once she started creating wooden door hangers and yard stakes, the orders started pouring in.

“Little by little I start figuring out what I was best at and what I liked doing most,” she said. “And the last year or two I really got into the wooden door hangers and yard signs ... my business really grew from there.”

Singletary said her products, which also include wine glasses, are completely customizable.

“I love doing things for weddings, birthdays and special events,” she said.

“I’m very bad at sticking to one thing because I want to do it all ... it’s the creative side of me I can’t contain.”

Creating has always been in Singletary’s wheelhouse.

“When I was young I was really into painting, drawing and sketching,” she said.

“I even tested for talented art ... I missed by one point and after that I kind of pulled away from it, but when I had extra time when staying home with Mason I started experimenting with it again.”

With her husband Ross as her “personal cutting machine,” Singletary said her every spare moment is spent creating the unique – and increasingly popular – products.

“Even through the pandemic I’ve been super

Water Quality Report 2019

Thank you for allowing us to continue providing your family with clean, quality water this year. In order to maintain a safe and dependable water supply we sometimes need to make improvements that will benefit all of our customers. The employees of the St. Charles Parish Water Department work around the clock to provide top quality drinking water to every tap. We ask that all our customers help us protect and conserve our water sources, which are the heart of our community, our way of life and our children's future.

Parish President Matthew Jewell is pleased to report that our drinking water is safe and meets Federal and State requirements. In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, The Environmental Protection Agency prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. Food and Drug Administration regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which must provide the same protection for public health. If you have any questions about this report or your water utility, please contact Robert Brou or Dustin Zeringue at (985) 783-5110. We want our valued customers to be informed about their water.

The Louisiana Louisiana Department of Health/Office of Public Health routinely monitors for constituents in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. The table on the second page shows the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1 to December 31, 2019. All drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may be reasonably expected to contain at least small amounts of some constituents. It is important to remember that the presence of these constituents does not necessarily pose a health risk.

St. Charles Parish vigilantly safeguards the quality of its water. Our employees live in the same neighborhoods you do. When we turn on our taps we expect what you expect a reliable source of high-quality drinking water.

This report is a summary of the quality of water provided to our customers for the last year. It is a record reflecting the hard work of our employees to bring you water that is absolutely safe. Included are details about where your water comes from, what it contains and how it compares to standards set by regulatory agencies. The St. Charles Parish Department of Waterworks is committed to providing you with information about your water supply, because customers who are well-informed are our best allies in supporting improvements necessary to maintain the highest drinking water standards.

If present, elevated levels of lead cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. St. Charles Parish Department of Waterworks is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

Some people who drink water containing trihalomethanes in excess of the MCL over many years may experience problems with their liver, kidneys, or central nervous systems, and may have an increased risk of getting cancer.

Some people who drink water containing haloacetic acids in excess of the MCL over many years may have an increased risk of getting cancer.

We are pleased to present to you this year's Water Quality Report. This report is designed to inform you about the quality water and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water.

Source Name	Source Water Type	Source Water Body Name
SURFACE WATER INTAKE	SURFACE WATER	MISSISSIPPI RIVER

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs and wells. As water travels over the surface of land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

Microbial Contaminants - such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife.

Inorganic Contaminants - such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial, or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining or farming.

Pesticides and Herbicides - which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff and residential uses.

Organic Chemical Contaminants - including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff and septic systems.

Radioactive Contaminants - which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

A Source Water Assessment Plan (SWAP) is now available from our office. This plan is an assessment of a delineated area around our listed sources through which contaminants, if present, could migrate and reach our source water. It also includes an inventory of potential sources of contamination within the delineated area, and a determination of the water supply's susceptibility to contamination by the identified potential sources. According to the Source Water Assessment Plan (SWAP), our water system had a susceptibility rating of "MEDIUM". If you would like to review the (SWAP), please feel free to contact our office.

LISTED ABOVE ARE CONTAMINANTS DETECTED IN ST. CHARLES PARISH DRINKING WATER. ALL ARE BELOW ALLOWED LEVELS. NOT LISTED ARE THE HUNDREDS OF OTHER CONTAMINANTS FOR WHICH WE TESTED THAT WERE NOT DETECTED.

IN THE TABLES ABOVE, YOU WILL FIND MANY TERMS AND ABBREVIATIONS YOU MIGHT NOT BE FAMILIAR WITH. TO HELP YOU BETTER UNDERSTAND THESE TERMS, WE'VE PROVIDED THE FOLLOWING DEFINITIONS BELOW.

 DEFINITIONS

PARTS PER MILLION (PPM) OR MILLIGRAMS PER LITER (MG/L) - One part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

PARTS PER BILLION (PPB) OR MICROGRAMS PER LITER (UG/L) - One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years in a single penny in $10,000,000.

PH - A measure of the acidity or alkalinity of water.

PHOSPHORUS PER LITER (PP/L) - Phosphorus per liter is a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity in terms of 5 NTU is not reportable in the average person.

RESIDUAL DISINFECTANT LEVEL (RDL) (NTU) - The level of a disinfectant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health.

ARSENIC LEVEL (AL) - The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

SD - Below Detection

MAXIMUM CONTAMINANT LEVEL (MCL) - The "Maximum Allowed" MCL is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

MAXIMUM CONTAMINANT LEVEL (MCL) (UG/L) - The "Goal" is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLs are also for a margin of safety.

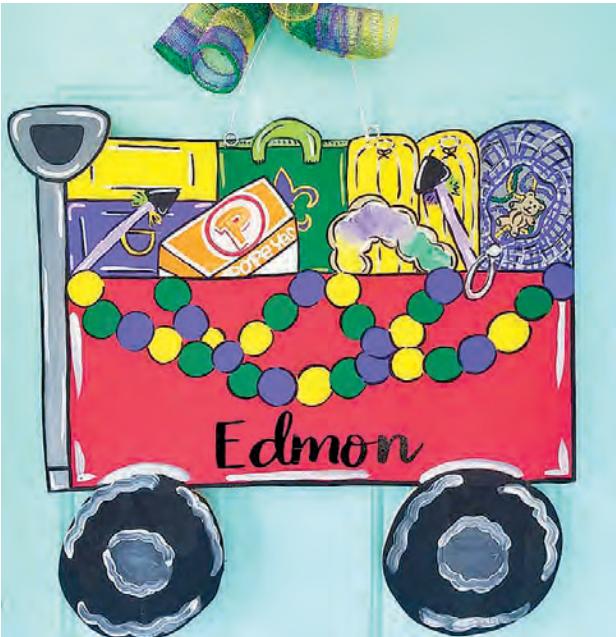

MAXIMUM RESIDUAL DISINFECTANT LEVEL (MRDL) - The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for the control of microbial contaminants.

MAXIMUM RESIDUAL DISINFECTANT LEVEL (MRDL) (PPM) - The level of a disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

CRYPTOSPORIDIUM DATA - St. Charles Parish Water System conducted monthly source water monitoring for Cryptosporidium (Crypto) from January 2019 to September 2019. Crypto was not detected.

SPECIAL INFO AVAILABLE - Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immunocompromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly persons and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their healthcare providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lower the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (1-800-426-4791).

busy ... it's a complete blessing," she said. "I have a lot of customers who, even though things are being super delayed, say it's worth waiting for."

Delays have come from pandemic-induced supply chain issues, as well as the fact that Ross can only cut when he's not at work.

"We stay extremely busy," Singletary said. "But he's always been super supportive ... even when I thought it wasn't going to go anywhere, he's always been very encouraging."

For now, Singletary said she is thrilled with how busy she has been and is excited for the future of Ginger & A Baby.

"I'm hoping my next step would be to invest in a machine to do the cutting for me ... that way I can get more cut," she said. "Right now I'm just I'm working out of a small shed."

When she does expand, Singletary said she would love to host paint parties and maybe even sell blank hangers for people to paint themselves.

"I would definitely love to help explain the process to anyone who would love to do it themselves," she said. "I've had someone message me who wanted to order something and I wasn't able to rush it for them, so I went through the whole process with her ... they came out fantastic."

Ginger & A Baby products are sold via the business' Facebook page. When she has extra time, Singletary said she creates pieces to stock at Maison Decor in Boutte.

Healing hands of God

Father, you extend a healing hand to us through the stripes laid on Jesus body as he laid His life & dild on that old Rugged cross of calvary to save man kind.
By His stripes we are healed.
By His blood we are saved.
Why would we reject such love?
His love for us caused his death, but the grave couldn't hold him
He aroused from the grave to save us from sin & hell.
Let us give Him all the honor, the Glory, praises & thanks, is belong to Him
He inhabit the praises of His people.
Let us praise & pray daily to honor the only one who could pay our debut.
No one else could do that.
We belong to him, he paid a great price to set us free.
Let us thank Him now & forever in Heaven when we get there.
Let Him love you & life you up as only he can do.
Praise His Holy name forever.
Thanks be to God almighty!

RESOLUTION NO. 6504

A resolution requesting the Louisiana Department of Transportation & Development perform a study to determine the feasibility of the installation of a right turn lane on Lakewood Drive, Luling, in conjunction with protected left turn signal phases, pavement markings, and directional signage at its intersection with U.S. Highway 90 and Barton Avenue (LA 3060), to reflect and further enhance the traffic management improvements recently installed at U.S. Highway 90 and Barton Avenue (LA 3060), and further request installation of traffic revisions if said study determines revisions are warranted.

WHEREAS, Lakewood Drive is utilized by residents, citizens, workers from businesses in the area, and most notably by school buses carrying students to/from school; and,

WHEREAS, the West Bank Regional Library located on Lakewood Drive is utilized year-round by all age groups, especially school-age children; and,

WHEREAS, the high volume of vehicular traffic from Lakewood Drive turning left and right onto and traveling across U.S. Highway 90, a major thoroughfare, with conflicting vehicular traffic from Barton Avenue (LA 3060) creates hazardous conditions; and,

WHEREAS, Resolution No. 4045 was adopted on June 20, 1994, asking the Department of Transportation & Development to review the traffic control signals at the intersection of U.S. Highway 90 and Barton Avenue (LA 3060)/Lakewood Drive, to consider the installation of turn protection arrows; and,

WHEREAS, Resolution No. 5770 was adopted on September 7, 2010, requesting the Department of Transportation & Development to review, study, budget, and install a right turn lane on Barton Avenue (LA 3060) onto Highway 90 to protect residents and those traveling through the area and to improve traffic flow; and,

WHEREAS, Resolution No. 5771 was adopted on September 7, 2010, requesting the Department of Transportation & Development to install left turning signals on Barton Avenue (LA 3060) and Lakewood Drive onto Highway 90 to protect the residents and those traveling through the area, to consider the installation of turn protection arrows; and,

WHEREAS, the recently installed right turn lane with right turn arrow pavement markings at U.S. Highway 90 on Barton Avenue (LA 3060), Luling, has heightened safety concerns at said intersection; and,

WHEREAS, combined straight and left turn arrow pavement markings on the straight/left turn lane and directional signage on Barton Avenue (LA 3060) at U.S. Highway 90 is requested to improve safety; and,

WHEREAS, the installation of a right turn lane on Lakewood Drive at U.S. Highway 90 with pavement markings and directional signage reflecting the aforementioned improvements on Barton Avenue (LA 3060) would provide a safety benefit by improving traffic flow and decreasing congestion in the area; and,

WHEREAS, traffic control signals are valuable devices for the orderly control and flow of vehicular traffic; and,

WHEREAS, protected left turn signal phases at the intersections of high volume vehicular traffic, like said intersection, eliminate conflicting vehicular traffic thereby reducing the number of accidents that occur; and,

WHEREAS, due to hazardous conditions that frequently occur at said intersection, these traffic revisions would be beneficial to citizens of our Parish.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, THAT WE, THE MEMBERS OF THE ST. CHARLES PARISH COUNCIL do hereby request the Louisiana Department of Transportation & Development perform a study to determine the feasibility of the installation of a right turn lane on Lakewood Drive, Luling, in conjunction with protected left turn signal phases, pavement markings, and directional signage at its intersection with U.S. Highway 90 and Barton Avenue (LA 3060), to reflect and further enhance the traffic management improvements recently installed at U.S. Highway 90 and Barton Avenue (LA 3060), and further request installation of traffic revisions if said study determines revisions are warranted.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Senator Gary L. Smith, Jr., Representative Gregory A. Miller, Department of Transportation & Development Secretary Dr. Shawn D. Wilson, Department of Transportation & Development District Engineer Administrator (District 02), Department of Transportation & Development Assistant District Administrator of Operations (District 02), and Department of Transportation & Development Highway/Rail Safety Engineer (District 02), asking for their assistance in this regard.
